QUIZLET
http://quizlet.com/

I used an online study site called Quizlet to create a bunch of flashcards to help study for the CRA exam. Quizlet is really easy to use and the nice thing is that you can share the cards and form "classes" to study with others. If you go to http://quizlet.com/ and then type my username "tdb308" in the search box where it says "Find something to study" it will bring up all the sets I created. These were made with whatever I could find to try and cover the areas of the Knowledge Base. If you create your own Quizlet account, you can then copy all of my cards (there are several categories) and arrange them or alter them however you want to fit your study needs without having to do much typing. I found this site VERY helpful, user friendly, and as a bonus....free! Regards, Troy

Troy Boni Contract and Grant Specialist Office of Research & Sponsored Programs Lehigh University (610)758-2985

STUDY BLUE
http://www.studyblue.com/

I created a set of flashcards to study using STUDYBLUE. You can download an app to your iPad or phone and study the app. Log in and look for the CRA Exam Flash Cards. Or you can create your own! Good luck to all!

Sincerely,

Carolynn Julien, M.S., CRA Associate Director Office of Research Administration Hunter College City University of New York
(212) 772-4020 phone (212) 772-4941 fax
cjulien@hunter.cuny.edu

CITI Collaborative Institutional Training Initiative
https://www.citiprogram.org/

The Collaborative Institutional Training Initiative (CITI Program) at the University of Miami is a leading provider of research education content. CITI provides web-based training materials to serve learners at academic institutions, government agencies, and commercial organizations in the US and globally.
Courses:
Animal Care and Use (ACU)   Biosafety and Biosecurity (BSS)   Export Control (EC)
Good Clinical Practice (GCP)   Information Privacy & Security (IPS) Human Subjects Research (HSR)
Responsible Conduct of Research (RCR)